1 Guiding principles

To fully meet its customer's high quality requirements, Swissmint pursues the following principles:

1.1 Customer focus

We at Swissmint always take our customers' needs seriously and are guided by them. Wherever possible, we endeavour to exceed their needs with our products and services.

1.2 Management

Management sees itself as the link between all interested parties and Swissmint. It sets objectives based on this that are pursued by all of its staff. The right resources, required training and necessary leeway are made available to its employees.

1.3 Employee involvement and right to participate

Swissmint's employees are the drivers of its expertise. They have the right to participate; they can and should incorporate their own suggestions and propose improvements wherever possible. They are responsible for fulfilling the objectives set. Their full involvement enables their skills to be exploited to the benefit of the organisation, which ultimately translates into innovation.

1.4 Process orientation

All activities at Swissmint are seen as a process and are worked through accordingly. The processes are described where necessary and are put into practice and continuously improved by its employees.

1.5 Continuous improvement

We see the constant improvement of all services as a main objective. This also means being able to react swiftly and flexibly to changes.

1.6 Decision-making based on fact

All decisions are always taken based on the data and information available at the time. The resultant measures are critically evaluated and corrected if necessary.

1.7 Supplier relationships of mutual benefit

Swissmint enjoys an interdependent relationship with its suppliers. This relationship should contribute to mutual benefit.
